

Goodwood Revival 2010 fashion scene

Saturday is Ladies Day at the Goodwood Revival, when thrilling frocks of all colours, cuts and designs compete amidst the roar of engines and the excitement of the race! Each year a privileged few are selected for the much sought after title of 'Best Dressed Lady' - with this year being no exception. (Photo montage: Goodwood website)

The fashions above are from the early and mid 1960s, some worn by ladies who would have known that time very well! With the cool northerly wind the furs were welcome too. The black and white chequerboard leather mini skirt and jacket seen at Lavant Corner at lunchtime were very much a 1960s' style. The fuel pump attendants were well able to make you forget the high price of fuel in the UK!
